OBJECTS CITIZENS' MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS EXPLAINED

By Captain DeGraff of U. S. Army, Instructor of 11th Inf. P. N. G.

FINE CHANCE FOR BOYS

Objectives and advantages of the Citizens' Military Training Camp, which provide a 40-day's vacation for young men between 17 and 24 years of age, all at government expense, were set forth in the city today with a soldier's frankness and plain speaking.

Captain Firth. R. DeGraff, on the detached orders of the United States Army, made two addresses on this subject. He first appeared before the students of the High School and at noon was a guest and the speaker at the luncheon of the Rotary Club.

In his address before the Rotary Club Captain DeGraff spoke very interestingly on the subject "National Defense." He outlined the scope of the National Defense Act, explaining its provisions, particularly the combination of the Regular Army, National Guard and the Reserve Corps in the scheme of military preparedness. He concluded his address with a statement of the principal facts in relation to the objects of the Citizens' Military Training Camp.

Captain DeGraff, who is an only son of Captain DeGraff, is also representative of Theodore Rosen, Philadelphia, state civilian aide of the Citizens' Military Training Camps of the Third Corps Area, United States Army, for the states of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Captain DeGraff explained that young men of the prescribed ages who are physically sound, can enroll for the camp to be held at Camp Meade, near Washington, up to 72 in number, which is the allotment from Fayette county. They will be provided with transportation in and from the camp and supplied with a uniform and subsistence while in camp.

The course of instruction for these without previous military experience embraces elementary military instruction, athletic and physical development, citizenship, military courtesy, personal hygiene, sanitation and studies in American citizenship. Applicants must be able to read and write. Advance courses are provided for those who have already attended a camp.

Supplementing the educational and instructional features, motion pictures, dramatics, lectures by prominent people, dances, supervised by hostesses and entertainments of a varied character are provided in the evenings. Bands are organized under the direction of army band masters.

Army surgeons, dentists, trained nurses and up-to-date hospitals are available at the camp. The health of the young man is given first consideration. Serious illness has been practically eliminated and not a single case of mumps or typhoid fever has ever occurred at these camps.

The "honor system," not rigid military discipline, is depended upon for control and administration. For first, or slight offenses the boys are warned or reprimanded. For repulsive they may be deprived of personal privileges. Irreconcilable and those who commit serious offenses are sent back home and not allowed to attend another camp. Distinctly military punishments are inflicted—no courts martial or confinement in the guard house. The young are not enlisted in the military service in any sense of the word. They are not soldiers, but civilians and regarded as such while in the camp.

The camp has a complement of captains of representative denominations, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish. These are charged with the duty of looking after the religious and moral welfare of their respective commandants.

The Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus and the Jewish Welfare Society maintain "huts" at the camp and provide free stationery for writing home. This is always encouraged and a complaint from parents that a son does not write home constitutes a demand of his good conduct record.

The daily routine duly begins at Governor Gifford Pinchot carried Fayette county by slightly more than 500 votes in Tuesday's primaries for delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention over Ralph B. General Edward Martin, for state auditor general nomination, on the Republican ticket, polled four to one over William Conner of Allegheny. His opponent, Samuel S. Lewis, candidate for the nomination for state treasurer, defeated his opponent, Frank P. Thompson, in Fayette county, 2,489 to 2,160, unofficial, with one precinct missing.

In the First Fayette county legislative district, William J. Burchinal, incumbent, received the nomination over Duncan Sinclair by a vote of 1,579 to 518.

The other Democratic nominees with considerable victories are: James C. Cochran and Richard J. Hayes of Dawson, and Richard J. Hayes of Dunbar. Cochran being high man on the ticket. In the First Legislative District, Ephraim S. Tyler won the Democratic nomination by means of 3,000, his candidacy having been announced too late to have his name officially printed on the ballot.

Boyd has won the Democratic nomination over Edward Werner of Somerset county, by a substantial majority. Boyd's vote in Fayette county will be around 10 to one over his opponent, 84 out of 108 precincts giving him 1,250 votes and Werner 187 votes.

Auto Drivers Who Rush to Fire Are Given Reprimand

Four persons, owners of automobiles, who drove to the fire which recently destroyed the garage and automobile of Ray Lanney in Tenth street, West Side, were given hearings before Mayor C. C. Mitchell last evening. The quartet was a portion of those who parked their machines in Tenth street that night.

The mayor did not impose any fines but reprimanded the men and told them no one, according to law, was allowed within 1,000 feet of a fire. Seven of the machines left the fire trucks to the blaze but the persons notified to appear before the mayor were only those who drove into Tenth street which is a one-way thoroughfare, and threatened to interfere with the work of the firemen.

The fliers hoped to establish a record for sustained distance flight.

The first jump was to be an unprecedented one—a non-stop flight to Constantinople, 1,889 kilometers away.

The war ministry did not announce the departure officially because it is planned unless the plane succeeds in reaching Constantinople in one jump.

Louisville, Nebraska.—"I was married twelve years before my boy was born. I had a lot of female troubles and had been treated by a physician for them and nothing helped. I have taken 36 bottles of the medicine and am never without it in the house. My baby is three years old now and I have not had any relief from my trouble. When any woman like mine, I am always glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound so that they will get the right kind of medicine." Mrs. JOE BROWN, Box 862, Louisville, Neb.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 90 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

ARE YOU RUPTURED?

We wish to announce the visit of the Collage Truss Experts at the Hotel Royal, Connellsville, Pa., Friday afternoon and evening, April 26, and all day and evening, Saturday, April 27, hours 9 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 P. M., and evenings 7 to 9. They will also be at the Hotel Waldo, McKeesport, Pa., Monday and Tuesday, April 29, 30 and 31.

Back View of New Invention for Rupture

We want to demonstrate to you absolutely without a penny in advance our new invention for holding difficult or aggravated cases of rupture whether of inguinal or umbilical character. If you are ruptured you should be interested in our ability to fit you with a truss that will do its work properly and give you the greatest ease and comfort possible.

Scientific and Practical

This new Collage Truss is based on the most scientific principles for holding a rupture. It is not only representative of mechanical perfection but contains that super-power for holding a rupture without discomfort, and that makes for a complete recovery where this result is possible.

Contains No Springs

There are no springs or metal parts used in this new truss other than the small necessary buckles; instead it is made of high-grade elastic web with soft, pliable cloth back made wider to distribute the pressure over a broader surface. Prevents all cutting and chafing, and gives the necessary uplift to the pads.

It Holds the Rupture

Really, quickly and permanently adjusted to an even and uniform pressure can be constantly maintained in any desired tension. The patented sectional pads are adaptable and will fit any kind of rupture. As the cure progresses the pressure can be lessened without a change of pads.

It Stays Put

When placed in position, the truss stays put and does not slide or roll. Regardless of the position of the wearer's body; stooping, jumping or standing erect, the truss remains firm and set, and adjusts itself as the occasion demands.

Comfortable Day or Night

To do its maximum amount of good, a truss should be worn continuously day and night. Upon retiring many people remove their truss, with the result that the weakened muscular tissues relax and oftentimes allow the rupture to assume the form of the original protrusion. This new truss can be worn at all times.

FREE DEMONSTRATIONS FOR TWO DAYS ONLY.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, APRIL 26 and 27.

Every ruptured person should visit our truss experts and learn what genuine truss-comfort means. No charge for demonstration or information. Capt. W. A. Collyns, Inc., Watertown, N. Y.

The Paramount

"SHADOWS"—Showing today at the Paramount, is a great American photoplay by a great American author. Lon Chaney, the well known character actor, appears in a splendid role.

Chaney's make-up and oriental mannerisms in this picture will make a decided impression on the minds of movie patrons. The high point of the picture, when Yen Sin denounces Nate Snow in the presence of John Malden, will get over with a decided bang. It is one of those scenes that will linger long in the memory.

The cast is unusually good. Aside from Chaney, there are Marguerite De La Motte, Harrison Ford, John Salmoli, Walter Long, Buddy Messinger and Priscilla Bonner, all of whom do good work. The photography is exquisite. Considerable technical skill is seen in the storm sequences which serve to introduce Yen Sin to the austere New England villagers. The production standards are remarkable for their vividness of details. Fishing village scenes make up the picture but each scene has an "atmosphere" touch that is out of the ordinary.

My Youth Cream Keeps This Baby Skin

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

Thousands upon thousands of Youth Cream. All druggists and women have asked me to tell what lotion counters now supply it at 60¢ cold cream I employ. They see me per jar. It comes in two types—with a girl's complexion. It is even the Cold Cream type and the Vanishing, even rosier than 40 years ago, type. Be sure to get the type.

Yet my life has been lived in the sun-worn. Both have the same five-light. And I served France for five years in the rigors of the war.

French experts perfected this cream for me many years ago. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry.

Also all the best that science knows to soften, whiten,

Coker Track Men Timed;
Speed Is Improvement
Of That of Last YearAthletes Are Enthusiastic Over
Prospects in Coming County Meet.

EARLY PRACTICE TODAY

Enthusiasm over the coming track meet is becoming rampant in the High School, especially among the boys directly concerned—the athletes themselves.

According to them and to those who have watched the workouts at Fayet Field, the Cokers certainly seem to have the "goods" this season that will warrant an even break when the meet takes place on Saturday, May 19, at the Dawson Fair Grounds.

The runners have been timed and their marks are very encouraging. The jumpers also look good and the fact that such prospects indicate some better success than some experienced last spring are inspiring much towards the spirit of the boys.

Students also are becoming interested. The school is only in its second year as a track and field contender and the same booking cannot be expected as is given at a football or baseball game. Nevertheless the sport is gaining in its adherents and in a few more years, advancing as it is now, it may be one of the chief features of athletics at the institution.

The county field meet will be participated in by about 12 high schools. There are numerous events and the Cokers may have entries in all, or nearly so. An early practice was scheduled for this afternoon.

Of Interest to Fans.

Dick Jones, 410 East 14th street, New York City, manager of the House of David baseball team, has written to this paper asking if there are any in the region desirous of booking that club. Managers wishing to do so may communicate with him.

Paul Nyati of Uniontown, 17 years old, is preparing to enter the Olympic contests for aquatic entrance to be held at Indianapolis, Ind., on June 6. He is now holder of the Junior National Backstroke title. He has been in a number of meets, generally winning, meeting with success and his friends believe he will be able to land on the Olympic team.

Opening at home yesterday the Boston Braves won a 16-inning clash from Philadelphia.

Mount Pleasant will play Norwin at Mount Pleasant Friday.

Webb's drunken malediction slowly died out and he stared thoughtfully at Dinsdale. "Huh. I'll drink with you," he mumbled.

After bolting his drink, Webb slyly remarked:

"You tote a likely lot of paper money round with you, I reckon."

"Always like to be well heeled—with money and guns."

Webb tugged at his mustache and nervously studied Dinsdale's profile.

"Have another," he grunted.

"Thanks. But not tonight. We'll make it on demand. I must be going."

As he strode to the exit he could feel Webb's gaze boring into his back. As he stepped into the darkness of the street a hand touched his arm and caused his own hand to close on a gun. Two round yellow eyes were blazing at him. The voice of Schiessors addressed him, and he knew the eyes belonged to the big owl.

"Not my two cents," exultingly whispered Schiessors. "That satisfies me. Of the Ogulala gang is in the town tonight."

"You'd better keep that talk to yourself," sharply warned Dinsdale. "And keep away from that man Webb. He's feeling ugly."

"Or, I know who to catch him. Schiessors knows where to get him. He's waiting with his Old Sitting Bull knife, known as the most famous. I know it by his eyes whether to go ahead or draw back."

"I'm telling you now to shut off that talk about train robbers being in town." Dinsdale sternly turned him. "That talk is poor medicine."

As he walked away he could hear Schiessors chuckling and muttering.

CHAPTER V

A Bad Break for Dinsdale. In a dark room at the back of a Chinese washhouse several men sat in

Then the Mongolian Stationed Outside the Door Ruled a Sing-Song Voice.

Silence, waiting. Then the Mongolian stationed outside the door raised a sing-song voice and was answered briefly in Chinese. The group in the room strained to attention. Some one crossed the room and drew the inside bolt. The door opened, but even had there been a light the inmates of the room would have beheld a figure so heavily muffled as to defy recognition. As it was, no man could see his neighbor.

"Who comes?" shilly demanded the man who had admitted the other men.

The one who always comes last. Number One."

"We are ready for your talk," announced the first speaker, returning to his chair.

"How are you known?" asked Number One.

"The one who always comes first to the meeting place." Number Two.

"Are you ready for your talk?"

"Three, Four and Six."

"Five?"

"Unreliable tonight. Drink."

"Unreliable this night from drink, he will be unreliable on other and more important nights," said Number One.

"He should be dropped from the rolls even as we have threatened to drop him twice before this. He might send us all to the noose. How do you vote?"

There was a slight pause, then in several of the different voices called out:

"Two."

"Three."

"Four."

"Six."

"One. It is unanimous. How shall it be done?" He must have no desire to talk.

"It can be left for me. Number Two, to manage."

"It is left for you to arrange with the Forty-Eight," ruled Number One.

"Now let us finish quickly. None of us is satisfied with the results. Only fifteen thousand taken from the stages within the last six weeks. Passengers have been warned at Cheyenne and Sidney to bring but little money in on their persons. The horse-ranch, even, is better paying. There is but one job in the hills that is worth while—one of the treasure-coaches. One coach may afford means at least two hundred thousand dollars, perhaps two hundred and fifty thousand. And the time soon comes when it will be necessary to try for such a prize."

"Then let's get the next one to go out. It's been held over and will carry a full load," eagerly said Number Two.

"First, we've got to have more men."

croaked a harsh voice. "We ain't strong enough to handle twelve guards and get away with the bullion."

"Number Three, you speak only a half truth," corrected the leader. "We have enough men. We've got to turn the tables. But we can't afford to take the chance. But we can plan to place our men to the best advantage. Then it will be simple. We must have at least two of our men among the guards, thus cutting their number down to ten."

"Two of the regular guards will get through just before the coach makes the trip. Two of our men must at once ask for jobs as guards. The time will be too short for the management to hesitate. Number Three will be one of the men. Number Four shall be the other man. In brief, the plan is this:

"The day and spot being known, Number Three must ride ahead with the advanced guard. Number Four must be one of the eight riding behind the coach. When Number Three spots our opponents our men should be out of the coach, as the ambush will be beyond a bend in the road. He will strike his man down. We in am bus will pull the fellow out of his horse. Number Three will ride back a bit and signal for one of the coach guards to join him. If more than one rides up, all the better. This guard, or guards, must be disposed of quickly. Their horses must not be frightened and must be secured in the woods. At the very least we will have cut down the number of guards to eight, with but one by the coach, one of them being Number Four. Number Three will wait opposite the ambush until the coach comes up. He and Number Four will take the six guards by surprise, covering them with four six-guns. We in am bus will instantly take a hand and secure the six. Three and Four will then gallop back to meet the two rear guards and take them by surprise. I already have a safe cache for the bullion. This is the plan in outline. Any suggestions or questions?"

"The only drawback is that Three and Four will be marked men," spoke up Number Two.

"Bad for us on the inside less will settle the hand of the ten," grumbled Number Three.

"That would be going it too strong," protested Number Four, with a shiver in his voice.

"Number One sharply said:

"Both Three and Four are already wanted for murder. One in Idaho; the other in Nevada. Yet they live here in Dogwood City and move about openly. Once we get the treasure we will scatter. This hill's game is nearly played out. Let others stay and pick up the crumbs and a rope."

"Seems as if I was getting the hot end of the poker," growled Number Three.

"Right as well sentences me to death and be done with it," bitterly complained Number Four.

"Rewards are offered for both of you and you haven't done a scuffle-dance yet," gruffly replied the leader.

"A swift horse, a change of stamping-ground, a new name, and with forty or fifty thousand dollars to blow you'd be foot to be caught. But if either of you refuse to play the part I pick for you, say so now."

There was an uneasy shuffling of feet, but the current concession not fully understanding the leader's words was fully understood.

"I'm game," muttered Number Four.

"Never squealed yet," snorted Number Three.

"Then that's settled, and we to the man who tries to kick down," said the leader. "Anything else?"

"I have a suggestion to make," spoke up Number Two. "Let Three and Four draw lots to see who shall take the inside job and leave the second place vacant until I can try to secure another man for the second guard. It doesn't much matter what happens to him after the job is finished. He will know nothing about the rest of you and if, by any chance he is captured there will be nothing he can tell."

Both Three and Four were eager to accept any scheme which would give one of them a chance to dodge the dangerous position of coach guard. Both proclaimed their satisfaction and wished the lot-drawing to be conducted on the spot.

Number One said:

"No lights to be shown at our little meetings. We must remember the rules. Lots may be drawn within a few days if we decide to adopt Number Two's plan. I rely on his judgment. I will talk with him about this new plan of ours. But until I have decided the first order stands and there will be no drawing of lots. You will wait the usual time before leaving this room."

"Who comes?" shilly demanded the man who had admitted the other men.

The one who always comes last. Number One."

"We are ready for your talk," announced the first speaker, returning to his chair.
